

Request for Quotation (RFQ) WLCR Project

Pathfinder International has been implementing Bangladesh's Women-led Climate Resilience (WLCR) project. The project centers on women as change agents, strengthening their knowledge and access to equitable quality health services alongside building community resilience to future shocks. Women and girls are subjected to various forms of SGBV within and outside the family. In such circumstances, environmental change by external phenomena –such as climate change – pushes them into a more vulnerable position. The existing gender inequalities heighten much more during contingencies or emergencies such as disasters and pandemics, calamities, and conflicts, especially when climate change results in gender-differentiated impacts.
